LOUISA, LAWRENCE COUNTY, KENTUCKY, NOVEMBER 12, 1915.

STANLEY ELECTED GOVERNOR OF KY.

Official Returns Give Him Plurality Above All Disputed Claims.

ENTIRE DEMOCRATIC TICKET WINS. PLURALITIES OVER 5000 IN SOME RACES.

Stanley's Majority 396. With Laurel county's vote today officially certified in the Governor's race as 1,124 for Morrow, Stanley's majority in the State is 396. This is subject to a further reduction of 127 in McCracken and thirty in Daviess, where these votes are being contested by the Republicans, and to the addition of 180 votes in McCrory where the Democrats have taken legal steps to prevent the padding of the Morrow vote.

The majority of Augustus Wesley Stanley, the Governor elect, over 124,000, for Morrow, his Republican opponent, now stands at 396.

Laurel county unofficially reported 1,124 majority for Morrow and this figure is used to certify Stanley's majority of 396 in the whole state.

There is in Laurel county a contention over 12 disputed ballots and if these are counted against him Stanley's majority of 396 is subject to a reduction of a dozen votes, which will leave it at 384, the minimum it can go on the official certification. With 36 in Daviess, claimed by the Republicans and now involved in court proceedings counted against Stanley, the Democratic nominee's majority would still be 348, which includes the excess of 180 Morrow votes in McCrory county, for which the Democrats are making a fight in the courts. If the McCrory county contention is decided in favor of the Democrats, which they have every reason to expect it will be, Stanley's final majority will be 534, giving the Republicans what they claim in Laurel and Daviess counties.

The official canvass in Jefferson county showed a majority of 4,663 for Stanley in the Fifth district. Democratic State campaign headquarters in the Galt House are being kept open pending the outcome of the official canvass and the officials are watching every move. Mr. Stanley is staying in the job and receiving congratulations from friends all over the State and country.

Thanks have begun to get back around the Republican State headquarters in the Seebach Hotel, but the campaign officials are for the most part keeping mum and having very little to say. Neither Mr. Morrow nor any of his headquarters staff has, however, yet publicly conceded Mr. Stanley's election.

Other Offices.

The Democratic candidates for all State offices are elected. Barksdale Hamlett's plurality is less than that of the other minor officers, being given about 400. Lieutenant Governor Black wins by the largest majority, probably 6,000. The other officers are elected by 4,500 to 6,500.

The Legislature.

The lower House will stand 58 Democrats to 32 Republicans. The Senate is also largely Democratic.

HAMLETT'S LEAD IS VERY SMALL.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 10. Barksdale Hamlett has a lead of 2,407 in returns received up to noon today over J. P. Lewis in the race for Secretary of State, with Daviess, Garrard, Letcher, Lincoln, McCracken, Muhlenberg and Wayne counties missing. Estimates on the missing counties reduce his majority to 139. Lewis is here, and it is understood both parties have employed attorneys to look after their interest where contests are pending. Louisville Post.

LARGE FUND FOR COUNTY AGENTS.

Washington, Nov. 7. More than half of the funds available in Kentucky during the fiscal year of 1915-16 for cooperative agricultural extension are to be used to further county agent activities, according to figures of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Of $121,888 available in Kentucky from Federal, State and local contributions $59,527 is to be used in the work of the county agent demonstration agents. The next largest item on Kentucky's schedule of distribution is $22,717 for home economics or home demonstration work for farm girls. While club work receives a large share it is being divided into several departments.

Kentucky takes high rank in cooperative agricultural extension this year, and the Southern States lead all other sections in funds appropriated for this purpose.

Of the amounts contributed from sources within the State, $60,000 is from the State Smith-Lever fund, made up mainly by district appropriations of the State Legislature. In addition to funds used under the Smith-Lever act $229,000 is appropriated by the State Legislature for extension work, $225,000 by colleges from funds under their immediate control, $921,000 by county authorities and $292,000 from miscellaneous sources.

PROCTOR WINS HONORS ABROAD.

Not every city the size of Huntington can boast of a man whose eminence in his own profession is a matter of international note. Huntington has at least one such a man in A. T. Proctor, the photographer, past president of the National Association of Photographers and winner of numerous medals and awards both at home and abroad, one of the honors which have fallen to Mr. Proctor recently is bestowed by the London Salon of Photographers, where by special invitation, he exhibited last year. Following this exhibition, the Salon issued an annual entitled "Photographers of the Year" in which some of the choicest offerings of the exhibition were reproduced. Two Americans were recognized in this manner, one of them being A. T. Proctor, perhaps the leader of his profession in the United States and Mr. Proctor.

Mr. Proctor's picture was "Grandmother's Wedding Cake," a group picture arranged and taken by him at the home of the late John C. Mayo in Kentucky. Commenting on it, a writer in the London annual says, "A more cleverly managed piece of work one does not often see."—Huntington Dispatch.

The stamps were found by means of a flash light, hidden under the ground floor of the building.

The stamps were sent by Mr. Patterson to the inspector in charge in Cincinnati.

Noller was recently arrested at Baxley, O., and taken to Cincinnati. He is said to have been connected with the robbery of the Louisville and other post offices. Independent.

WERE MARRIED IN CATLETTSBURG.

Forest Sammons, of Louisa, a surveyor, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Sammons, and Miss Clara Hornberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hornberger, of Ironton, were quietly married at Catlettsburg Friday afternoon by Rev. E. E. Galtin. Those present at the marriage were the Misses Amy, Grace and Nora Sammons, of Louisa, sisters of the groom, Miss Fred Hornberger, a sister of the bride, and Mr. Jesse Roberts, of Louisa, Ashland Independent.

The foregoing are the main features of a quiet little wedding which was very much of a surprise to many of the friends of the contracting parties. Mr. Sammons made a trip or two to Louisa at unusual times last week, and these caused enough curiosity to make the groom to be to tell what was going to happen, and when and where. This was all that could be learned until the day of this interesting event. Mr. Sammons had already rented and fitted up a pretty suite of rooms on Padon-st., Catlettsburg, and it was in the newly made home that the two were made one, about 3 p. m. Shortly after the ring ceremony had been performed the Misses Sammons took the train for home, and Mr. and Mrs. Forest Sammons and Miss Hornberger and Mr. Roberts went to Huntington for supper.

The bride is a very pretty and intelligent young woman, formerly a teacher in the Ironton public schools. She visited Louisa last summer as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Clark. It was then that she met the worthy young man who is now her husband.

Everybody in Louisa knows the groom, and none knows any ill of him. He is sober, intelligent and industrious, and of the character. By the aid of these qualities he has secured a good position in the U. S. Engineer office at Catlettsburg, with a chance for promotion. His Louisa friends extend to him and his attractive bride congratulations and good wishes for much happiness.

COUNTY AGENT'S WORK.

While in the upper Blaine county Mr. Kogley found two stacks of sheep badly infested with stomach worms. In one community a hundred sheep and lambs have died. He has treated this disease very successfully in this county, and hopes every farmer owning sheep will report any infestation at once, for the animals will die if not treated and the treatment costs nothing. Some farmers from the Point as well as out in the county have reported a loss of cattle from diarrhea. Report such cases in time and you will have one more animal for sale. Mr. Kogley has not had an animal to die when he began treating it in the early stages of the disease.

Dr. Harry and John Gambill of the home are beginning to use. Bissed meat with their corn to make a balanced ration for their cows and calves. This is the first demonstration of this rich protein feed out any distance from Louisa. These men are pleased with the pure bred cattle they purchased a year ago and next year they will probably break the record for that end of the county and build a Sire.

Last Wednesday Mr. Kogley helped Mr. Geo. Belcher of Glenwood select some Shorthorn breeding stock at Mt. Sterling and Winchester, Ky. He shipped home twelve splendid individuals. They were bought right and will grow into money, none of them are over three years of age.

Last Fork is rapidly becoming famous as the home of improved breeding stock.

ALL HONOR TO KNOTT COUNTY.

Knott county, which is located in the very heart of the mountains, holds the distinction of being the most consistently Democratic county in Kentucky. While the Democratic vote fell off or was affected by the "stay-at-homes" practically everywhere else, the loyal Democracy of Knott county stood firm and "came across" with the splendid majority of 712 for Stanley for Governor. Knott county went for McCrory for the nomination for Governor, but as has always been its custom stood by the party nominee.—Louisville Times.

GOOD IMPROVEMENTS.

The improvement committee of the city council, under the direction of Mayor Vinson, is doing some good work on the streets. Several small but useful connecting crossings have been made and three or four laid across the main streets. The crossing from Ferguson's store to the court house square has been raised out of the ground into which it sank years ago and it is no longer avoided by the public. These improvements are appreciated by all who use the streets. Some better sidewalks are greatly needed, but this has been said before. Jefferson-st. has been much improved by the railroad company.

FIRE IN FORT GAY.

A frame cottage located near the Ft. Gay public school was entirely destroyed by fire Tuesday night. It belonged to young Neal Wellman and was unoccupied. The fire is thought to have been the work of an incendiary. The adjoining residence of Luce Wellman was scorched but not badly damaged. The fire occurred about 12 o'clock and made a big light.

NOVEMBER TWENTY-FIFTH.

The religious part of the observance of Thanksgiving Day will consist of union services, with a sermon by Rev. L. E. McElwain, of the M. E. Church South. From the information at hand it seems most likely that the services will be held at the M. E. Church on Thursday night.

NARROW ESCAPE OF AN ENTIRE FAMILY

RESIDENCE OF JOE MERCHANT, OVER IN WEST VA., BURNED AT MIDNIGHT.

On Wednesday night of last week the residence of Joseph Merchant and family, on Twelve Pole, Wayne county, about 10 miles from Ft. Gay and one-half mile below the old Sam Ferguson home place, was, with its entire contents, totally destroyed by fire. The fire occurred near midnight, and so rapid was its progress that it was by the narrowest margin that the burning alive of the whole family was averted. The residence was a substantial log structure of one story and a half. One of the down stairs rooms was occupied as a sleeping room for Mr. and Mrs. Merchant and their four children who were at home, the fifth child being with its grandparents here, where he goes to school. In one of the upper rooms slept the aged mother of Mr. Merchant, Mrs. Susanah Merchant a widow aged 68 years. Before going to bed Mr. Merchant had placed one end of a railroad cross tie in the fire which, scattered on the open hearth, and covered it with ashes, so as to make it easy to start a fire in the morning. It is thought that a piece of the wood was thrown out upon the floor by the snapping of the tie, and from this beginning came the destruction of the home. It must have burned rapidly, for when the family was awakened by the roar of the flames retreat was nearly cut off. The father and mother took the children in their arms made a safe exit from the house, but one of the little children, David, a child of 3 years, ran back into the burning building, followed rapidly by his father who with great difficulty again took the boy in his arms and carried him to a place of safety. In doing this Mr. Merchant was badly burned on the head and face and right hand and arm. The boy's face and front part of his head were burned. The grandmother had a very narrow escape from cremation, being badly burned on the face and hands in making her escape from the fire. The occupants of the building were clad only in their night clothes, and everything else which they possessed and had in their home was entirely consumed. Every stitch of clothing a house full of excellent furniture, a great store of canned goods of all sorts, a new sewing machine, and all the usual furnishings of a well stocked home, John Ferguson, Mrs. Merchant's uncle, lives and has a general store at the home place, and he did the best he could toward furnishing his sorely stricken relatives with shoes and clothes. On Thursday the family came to Louisa. Mrs. Merchant wrapped in a kimono. They went to the home of Mrs. Merchant's parents, James Vinson and wife, where a physician dressed the burns and the homeless ones were made comfortable. Mrs. Vinson started a sure enough "thimble party" and her stricken ones were made to feel that they had friends indeed.

The aged Mrs. Merchant was badly burned about the face and arms. Her injuries were so severe that she did not attempt to make the trip to Louisa, but remained with relatives of the family.

Joe Merchant is known by everybody in this section as a hardworking, honest man. For some time he managed a dairy near this city, and by the most incessant labor accumulated something of this world's goods. Some time last spring he moved to Twelve Pole, where his prospects seemed good. He takes his loss philosophically, saying it might have been much worse, and is thankful that his wife, his children and his mother are spared to him.

NICE WORDS FOR LOUISA VOCALIST.

The following is taken from the Paintsville correspondence of the Ashland Independent.

The Mayo Memorial church gave a banquet Friday night in the church parlors, to welcome the new pastor and wife. This was indeed a very grand affair, and the ladies of the church, who were the promoters of this excellent entertainment, are to be congratulated. Three courses were served. Miss Fresso, of Louisa, furnished a treat to the guests, with three vocal solos: "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," "Mother MacTree" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," as only Miss Fresso can render them. The Paintsville band also furnished splendid music, and several interesting speeches were delivered. This was a most enjoyable occasion.

REMARKABLE BIRTH RECORD.

Assessor James L. Demaree was in town the other day and told us a remarkable thing. Eighteen months ago the wife of his nephew, Gaither Drowery, who lives in the edge of Spencer county, gave birth to five children, three boys and two girls. The girls died in two weeks, but the boys are still living and are robust youngsters. A few weeks ago Mrs. Drowery became the mother of four boys, and all are strong and healthy and are growing nicely. The couple went from Mercer to Hardin county, Kaiser William wouldn't have any trouble replenishing his army as fast as his soldiers are killed off if he had subjects like these. But as they are loyal natives of the United States President Wilson ought to see that Mrs. Drowery is granted a liberal mother's pension.—Harrodsburg Herald.

W. E. QUEEN APPOINTED A STATE ROAD INSPECTOR.

W. E. Queen, of this place, has been designated to act as a road inspector where State aid is being used. The law provides that an inspector can not be used in the county where he lives. Therefore he will be sent to other counties to do inspection work.

Mr. Queen is a practical road man, having had considerable experience in the work of building and repairing roads. He is thoroughly reliable and will do his duty at all times.

AGAIN SENDS DEMOCRAT.

The Floyd-Knott-Letcher legislative district will again be represented by a Democrat in the lower branch of the next General Assembly, John S. Webb, of Letcher-co., having defeated his Republican opponent, W. V. Sergeant, of the same county. It takes a regular Republican landslide to affect that district, as while Letcher-co. is strongly Republican, Floyd and Knott are reliably Democratic and have pulled many a nominee out of a hole.—Louisville Times.

NEW CHURCH TO BE BUILT AT ASHLAND.

The trustees of the First Methodist Episcopal Church at Ashland Saturday evening closed the deal for the purchase of the Chambers' property on 18th street and Carter avenue, and will have their new church building erected thereon instead of on the property on 17th and Winchester, owned by the church, as previously intended. The price paid for the Chambers' property was $10,000.

BAPTIST BAZAAR.

The ladies of the Baptist church will hold a sale of useful and fancy articles suitable for the coming Christmas season, on Nov. 19-20. On this occasion they will offer one of the nicest assortment of holiday articles ever seen at a church bazaar, and they hope that the sale will be liberally patronized. It will be held in the office of the Slinger company, near the postoffice.

Whitesburg, Ky., Nov. 9.—Mrs. John Holland, a plucky mountain woman, residing near Jenkins, in this county, proved herself a heroine yesterday when her two small children were about to be cremated in their burning home. She rushed in amid the flames and rescued them, but was herself severely burned about the hands and face. The house was destroyed with all its contents and the family is homeless.

Lord Kitchener, at the request of his colleagues, has left England for a short visit to the Eastern theater of war. This announcement, made last evening after a cabinet council, and a long audience with Premier Asquith, had with the King, set at rest the rumors current as to the War Secretary's present intentions.

The Balkan campaign is apparently nearing a climax. Nish, the fortified city so long the Serbian temporary capital, has fallen before the Bulgarian thrust from the east. Kraljevo in the western morava has been taken. Varvarin was captured and with it more than 2,000 Serbians, while at Krivovar the Bulgarian and the Tenthio forces have formed a new junction.

Errors are Ancient History

Error-proof bookkeeping is just as necessary for the protection of your money on deposit with us as is a modern, burglar-proof safe.

The Burroughs Bookkeeping Machine which we are using in our accounting department, handles the bookkeeping work with absolute accuracy. Its figuring is done by parts of hardened steel—it can't make a mistake. Errors in the handling of our depositors' accounts are ancient history since we have been using this modern equipment.

This extra safeguard in handling the figures which represent your transactions with us is just one of the ways in which we are prepared to give you service.

Another service we offer is consultation and advice in the business affairs of our customers, when such help is asked for.

Talk over your business and financial problems with us—any officer of this bank will be glad to consult with you on such matters at any time. Often we are able to make helpful suggestions.

Any service, consistent with good banking practice, which is in the power of this bank to offer you will be given freely and cheerfully at any time.

Returns from the election indicate that both amendments to the constitution of Kentucky carried.

The small vote received by the Progressives in Massachusetts Tuesday lost them their legal standing as a party in that State.

Some alarm was occasioned by a report that Sam Pugh, of Vanceburg, had been elected to the Court of Appeals. Official returns show that he lost by nearly 4000.

Cincinnati is one of the wettest cities in the country. It gave a majority of 64,000 against prohibition last week, while the entire State gave only about 50,000 majority wet.

2000 women are fighting in the Serbian army, alongside their brothers and husbands. They do not lose their nerve under fire and are said to inspire the men to greater efforts. Little Serbia is suffering terribly in this war, with little hope of saving her identity.

Business of almost every kind is up to the top notch in the United States. It is not all war business, by any means. The domestic demands are great enough to keep the wheels going. Business enough for a full year is already in sight, regardless of whether the war continues or not.

The NEWS desires to apologize to its readers for placing the Democratic majorities in Kentucky so high last week. We gave it as accurately as possible at the hour of going to press. But almost every hour brought a widely different report, and the next morning the figures given out at Louisville were more nearly correct, but the NEWS was already printed and in the mails. We try to be accurate in our news. The Democratic ticket won, as will be seen elsewhere.

John H. Patterson, the National cash register man of Dayton, O., says: Merchants everywhere tell our salesmen that business is booming.

Farmers have had two record crops at big prices, with big demand at home and abroad.

Stock of manufactured material are short, and labor is in great demand. Exports largely exceed imports. Factories are busy, many working overtime.

More freight cars are needed, and steamers are taxed to capacity.

People are living better, and spending their money more freely.

This country has the best money in the world, and more of it than ever before.

Such a combination of favorable circumstances never has occurred before, and probably will never occur again.

Billions of dollars are passing over the merchants' counters.

COULD BE MADE TO FIT.

At church the other night a man sat behind a woman who had one of those dinky little feathers sticking straight up from her hat, and every time the man moved his head to see the preacher the feather moved too. After a while he became so cross-eyed that instead of focusing on the preacher one eye was fastened on Jim Simpson in the choir loft and the other had Jim McMurtry pinned to the Sunday school wall. Some night that man is going to carry a pair of shears up his sleeve and clear out all the shrubbery within reach. It may result in a fist fight, but blackened eyes are preferable any time to crossed eyes.—Cynthiana Democrat.

By very little change of names the foregoing could be made to fit here. Please allow the proof reader to suggest that if the men will occupy the front pews in church, the shrubbery need not be disturbed.

C. & O. TO BUILD EXTENSION UP BEAVER CREEK.

Whitesburg, Ky., Nov. 6.—It is said here that preparations are being made for the building of a fifteen mile branch of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad up the right fork of Beaver creek, north of here on the Knott-Floyd border, in order to tap extensively rich coal fields in that section. The rights of way were obtained some time ago. A number of big corporations including the Elkhorn Mining Corporation, plan numerous development projects along the new route which is doubtless the richest undeveloped field in Eastern Kentucky.

After the election he visited Mrs. Turner's relatives in Mass., and stopped off in little old New York for a few days. Mr. Turner is Assistant Cashier of the Paintsville National Bank and was elected by a handsome majority as a member of the Paintsville Board of Councilmen in his absence.

Last Thursday evening the members and a number of friends of the church and the minister of the Mayo Memorial Church, South, met at the church to meet the new pastor and his family. The program and the arrangements were in the hands of the Ladies Home Mission Society which always insures the best of everything that can be had. Tables in the basement of the church were beautifully decorated and cards with the names of the persons present were then placed at each place.

John E. Buckingham was toastmaster and delivered the welcome address to the new preacher. It was one of the best talks on the ministry ever delivered in this section. His eulogy of the ministry was beautiful and was enjoyed by the large gathering. Rev. Sowards replied in an excellent speech.

Miss Freese, of Louisa, who came here especially to sing at this banquet, sang "I Hear You Calling Me," and "Mother MacCree." Mr. Buckingham in speaking of Miss Freese said Louisa had always loaned Paintsville the best she had. Miss Freese in addition to the above sang "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia." All three were beautifully rendered and very much enjoyed by all present. Miss Freese is a singer of ability and is noted over the eastern section of Kentucky for her excellent singing.

Judge Finley E. Fugg responded to a toast to the Sandy Valley Seminary. Making an excellent speech in second nature to Judge Fugg. He knows how it is done and never fails to hold the closest attention of his listeners. On this occasion his talk was exceptionally good and his conception of a higher education for the coming young man and woman was heartily approved by his listeners. His talks are not only instructive but are entertaining.

Prof. W. B. Ward and Miss Gould replied to Judge Fugg's toast with good talks on education and the workings of the Seminary.

A family talk led by Mr. Buckingham, J. W. Anxier, M. C. Kirk and G. B. Carter were short talks but to the point and much appreciated by the gathering.

An excellent banquet was served in three courses by the Ladies of the Home Mission Society. These ladies are to be congratulated on the arrangements and the spread. Mrs. Mayo has the thanks of all who attended the banquet for the many things she did to make the occasion a grand success. She supplied beautiful cut flowers to each of the guests.

FLOYD COUNTY'S RECORD FOR WEEK.

News From Prestonsburg and the Surrounding Country.

Marriage of Dr. M. Leete and Miss Fugate.

Last Saturday night Dr. Martin Leete and Miss Claudia Fugate thought they would surprise their friends by eloping and going to Paintsville on horseback, then leaving on 37 Sunday morning, having a friend bring Miss Fugate's clothes on some train and go to Ironton and get married.

This plan, however, failed because they could not get horses. They then thought they would wait until Sunday morning and walk to the old station early and no one would have the least idea of their intentions.

When Mrs. Combs went in to call Miss Claudia for breakfast about seven o'clock and found that she was gone she began to suspect something. So she at once began to look for her best clothes and found a note saying she had gone to get married. Mr. Combs then hurriedly ran to the station just before the train pulled out and found that they were not there he boarded the train and found them waiting at the old station to get on. He walked up to them and asked where they were going. They told him. Then he kindly asked them to go back home and in a jesting way said "he would just as soon see her marry him as any one." So they came back and were quietly married by Rev. Jackson at the home of B. F. Combs, where the bride had made her home for a number of years.

Not a single member of either family knew of their romantic plans. Only one or two of the groom's most intimate friends knew it.

Miss Fugate is an accomplished young lady, possessing rare talents. Mr. Leete is a popular young man of splendid qualities. He graduated in dentistry last May and is now located with the well known dentist, R. H. Leete.

A "fun shower" was given at the home of B. F. Leete Tuesday evening for the bride and groom.

The invitation read thus: "At the home of Dr. R. H. Leete on Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th, at the hour of 7:30, the friends, neighbors and relatives of the groom and bride, Dr. Martin Leete and wife, nee Miss Claudia Fugate, will assemble themselves for the purpose of showing the love and esteem in which this popular couple is held. All will bring some kind of a piece of tinware. You are requested to heed this warning and be there at the hour appointed. No excuse will be accepted and if you cannot come send your 'tinware.' By order of the self-appointed committee on tinware, Homer Saulsbury, chairman. Not only did they receive 'tinware,' but handsome pieces of aluminum and other valuables. All had a very merry time until a late hour. Refreshments, consisting of punch and sandwiches, olives and pickles were served by Misses Beas Leete and Ruth Davidson. Little Miss Evelyn Johns presided over the punch bowl.

The guests were Rev. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Combs, Mr. and Mrs. D. Fitzpatrick, Dr. and Mrs. Evans, Dr. and Mrs. McVay, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Stumbo, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Huttschall, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Mayo, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Jo Harkins, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Burke, Mr. and Mrs. N. M. White, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cottrell, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dings, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wells, Mrs. Carnahan, Misses Ruth Davidson, Ella Noel White, Emma and Anna Harris, Ruth Archer, Maud Saulsbury, Hazel Gardner, Annie Fitzpatrick, Marian Mayo and Edith Fitzpatrick. Messrs. TOM HATCHER HAD "DOPE."

Tom Hatcher, of Pikeville, one of the leading Democratic politicians of Eastern Kentucky, was in Louisa yesterday and very proud of party success. Much of the credit for the Democratic victory is due Tom Hatcher, who worked like a Trojan in his section. Besides, Tom proved himself right smart of a prophet and that he had the "dope." A week before the election he said that the best the Democrats could hope for in Pike county was to hold the Republicans down to 450 majority, and Morrow got 444 in Pike. "It was like pulling a tooth, though," he remarked. — Louisville Times.

NORMAL PRICE FOR TURKEYS.

Information is that, although the crop of turkeys is spotted, the aggregate supply will be near normal. In some sections there is a shortage, but extraordinary numbers in other localities counterbalance this wet-season effect. As a consequence it is forecast that prices at pens will be about the same as last year, the range being from 13 to 15 cents.—Nichols Advocate.

DR. CURRAN POPE CLAIMS CANCER CURE DISCOVERY.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 3.—Dr. C. A. Pope, of Louisville, announced at a meeting of 200 members of the Ohio Valley Medical Association here to-day that the use of "autolysin," a recent discovery in cancer treatment, had proved satisfactory in a number of cases. Dr. Pope said that he would continue his experiments with the medicine for a year at least before branding it as an absolute cancer cure. So-called "hopeless cases" had yielded to "autolysin" treatment, he said.

Miss Lora Ramey came down from East Point Sunday and was the guest of Miss Roberta Dixon, leaving Monday over the N. & W. for Stone, Ky., where she will teach a class in music.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The real, regular machinery which will pick and groom the next Republican and Democratic candidates for president will be started up in December.

With the meetings here of the National committees at that time the dates and places of meeting of the Democratic and Republican conventions will be decided upon. From then on, committee headquarters here will be busily watching booms, primaries, delegations and other details of the program of picking the president.

Chicago, Philadelphia, and San Francisco are bidding for the republican convention. The seaboard cities find Chicago's central location is the chief thing they have to combat, such is going about offsetting this in their own way. The convention will be held the latter part of June.

Dallas, St. Louis, Chicago, Buffalo and Omaha are contenders for the democratic convention.

Responding to a demand following the last Republican convention, there has been a cut of ninety delegates, largely among southern delegations, which represented districts in which there is little republican strength. The number cut off is as follows: Alabama, 8, Arkansas, 3, Florida, 4, Georgia, 12, Louisiana, 8, New York, 2, North Carolina, 3, South Carolina, 7, Texas, 14, Virginia, 9. It has been ruled that the Hawaiian, Philippine and Porto Rican delegates cannot vote, and they are included in the ninety.

This brings the number of republican delegates down to 698. The Democratic delegation number 1,088.

In nineteen states the delegations are now chosen by primaries, and these are looked forward to with keen interest as showing the desire of the country in the matter of candidates. The primaries will be held as follows:

Indiana, March 7; Minnesota, March 14; New Hampshire, March 14; North Dakota, March 21; Michigan, April 3; Wisconsin, New York, Illinois, April 4; Iowa, April 10; Nebraska, April 22; Maryland, May 1; California, Ohio, May 9; Pennsylvania, May 16; New Jersey, May 23; South Dakota, West Virginia, June 6.

In Alabama, there is a primary bill pending in the legislature and in Vermont the primary bill passed will be voted upon at a referendum this winter. Of the 988 republican delegates, 532 or considerably over half, are named in this way, and slightly over half of the democratic delegates. The remainder are chosen in caucuses.

Sentiment at democratic headquarters here is all Wilson. At republican headquarters officials are "strictly neutral" on candidates.

The action to be taken by the Progressive party is expected to be made known by Committee Chairman Victor Murdock at Wichita, Kansas, in a few weeks.

EXPERIENCE OF KENTUCKY WOMAN.

Louisville, Ky.—"I have been much benefited by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When in a run-down, nervous condition I saw 'Favorite Prescription' advertised in the paper. The use of one bottle gave me very marked improvement and I am glad to endorse it. It is a good medicine and seems to be just as advertised."—Mrs. LILLIE ZWEDOFF, 2233 Bank St.

An affection confined to women must have its cause in the womanly nature. There is no doubt that a diseased condition of the delicate womanly organs, is in general responsible for feminine nervousness and an undermined constitution. The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes women happy by making them healthy. There are no more crying spells, "Favorite Prescription" is for inflammation and female weakness. It makes weak women strong.

Middle aged women about to experience that dreaded change of life, should profit by the experience of thousands of noble women who have gone through the same period with little or no pain, misery or discomfort.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is and has been for nearly 50 years just the medicine. It is not a secret prescription, for its ingredients are printed on the wrapper; it's a temperate medicine, a glyceric extract from roots.

Get the "Prescription" today—either in liquid or tablet form. If you want to better your physical condition speedily.

THE HOME CIRCLE AND ITS INTERESTS

Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle at Evening Tide.

Mothers.

It was a Boston child, of course, who said when somebody asked her what she considered mothers good for.

"Why, you see, God couldn't be everywhere, and so he just had to make mothers."

But it takes grace to be a good mother—now doesn't it? She must be wise and patient and good natured and serene and always ready to comfort and help without losing her self-control. Prof. Swing once said he knew many mothers whose children were well washed, well scolded, well dressed, and well whipped, but few whose children were inspired and it certainly takes grace to lead such a life before the children that they shall be inspired.

If you have good, healthy children, full of animal spirits and frolicking with fun and life, be thankful for it even if they do make more noise some times than it seems possible to bear; for the weak and nervous child is tenfold more of a problem. There are two general types of nervous children. The active child always on the go, inquisitive, and acquisitive, but delicate as the timorous leaf shrinking back into itself at the first repulse or harsh word, and the pale, quiet, affective child, thoughtful, responsive, reserved. The child of the first type may be the embryo philanthropist or leader of criminals, inventor or social nonconformist, as his training tends, while the child of the second type develops into the philosopher, the poet, the man of letters, or the misanthrope, the recluse, the anarchist, as the case may be. One of the greatest mistakes in training a nervous child is to think that strength can come thru opposition. Such a child should be guided, not driven. If afraid of the dark, it should not be forced to sleep in an unlighted room. Timidity should not be ridiculed, but patiently explained and argued away.

Few people realize how important it is to have sunshine in the house. We must have fresh air, they say, and throw open the doors. But the sun's rays must be kept out. It will fade the carpet. So they keep the shutters shut and the curtains down. What must be the condition of a room which is kept dark? But it is just as true of an individual that sunshine is just as necessary to keep in a cheerful state and capable of scattering smiles, as it is for a house to have both heat and light, in order to make it healthful.

Sunlight is a substance; so is the sunlight of the soul. We need not manufacture either. What the natural sun is to the earth, the Lord is to the soul. We need to open the shutters by putting away every selfish and worldly thought; we need to let up the curtains that separate us from the neighbor's welfare. We are created to be diamonds, to reflect the light. But if we absorb it by turning our affections and thoughts wholly upon self we become like charcoal.

Much happiness or misery depends on the management of the home. Let me ask you are their not more ideal homes? Not merely places where food and shelter may be obtained, but where the inmates are ever anxious to speak loving, sympathizing words and do the kindest deeds within their power.

How much capital have you invested in the worrying business? Some folks put everything they have into it and never draw out a cent. All they get in the end is a poor physical development, their eyes, sour faces and dried up souls. Does it pay?

Cultivate kindness of heart, think well of your fellowmen; look with charity upon the shortcomings in their lives; do a good turn for them as opportunity offers, and family, don't forget the kind word at the right time. How much such a word of kindness, encouragement or appreciation means to others sometimes, and how little it costs to give it.

Send the Children to Bed With a Kiss. O, mothers, so weary, discouraged. Worn out with the cares of the day. You often grow cross and impatient. Complain of the noise and the play for the day brings so many vexations. So many things going amiss. But, mother, whatever may vex you, Send the children to bed with a kiss.

The dear little feet wander often. Perhaps from the pathway of right. The dear little heads that new mischief. To try you from morning till night. But think of the desolate mothers.

Who'd give all the world for your bliss. And, as thanks for your infinite blessing. Send the children to bed with a kiss.

For some day the noise will not vex you. The silence will hurt you far more. You will long for the sweet, childish voices.

For a sweet, childish voice at the door; And to press a child's face to your bosom.

You'd give all the world just for this. For the comfort 'twill bring in your sorrow. Send the children to bed with a kiss.

FLORENCE A. JONES.

DISCOVER GRAVE OF GRAND-FATHER CONGRESSMAN FIELDS

Washington, A veil of obscurity which for more than a half century has shrouded the life of a pioneer of the South, has been lifted by the efforts of the North District representative and his brother and secretary, Austin Fields, that the grave of the soldier was located on an island between New Jersey and Delaware, known as Jones Place, a part of the New Jersey National cemetery.

The grave is just a short distance from old Fort Delaware, where, with other Confederate prisoners, Capt. Fields found a victim of the sniping plague.

A small stone giving the Kentucky name and service marks his grave. It is just one of hundreds in the cemetery.

Records of the war department which were obtained by congressman Fields showed that the grandfather was one of the victims of the plague, which caused scores of deaths in the prison. With this information Austin Fields went to Delaware last week. He returned with the message that after a little searching he came upon the stone bearing his grandfather's name. Although there is a considerable feeling of gratification that he have found the burying place of Captain Fields, yet there is no guarantee that it was his body that was placed there, said Mr. Fields. "The soldiers died so rapidly and were buried in such haste that we believe it would be useless to dig into the grave in the faint hope of finding something to identify him or carry back to the family cemetery in Carter county."

Capt. Fields recruited for the Confederate a company of adherents to the cause of the South in Carter county. Most of the fighting of these Kentuckians took place in East Tennessee. The leader was taken prisoner in 1864 and sent with hundreds of Confederates to Fort Delaware prison.

WHEN STUDENTS ARE DOPED WITH CIGARETTES.

Never have I seen the disastrous results of cigarette-smoking upon students better presented than in the table which accompanies this article and which is taken from the Teachers' Institute. According to this school journal, it appears that in a certain public school with about five hundred pupils it was found that boys were doing work far inferior to that of the girls. The teachers began to look for the cause and discovered that a very large percentage of the boys were habitual cigarette smokers, but apart from this there seemed to be little difference in the daily lives of the sexes. An investigation was begun to see just what effect cigarette-smoking was having. Twenty boys known not to smoke were taken as a basis for comparison with twenty smokers drawn by lot from the whole group of cigarette smokers, and the two groups were carefully observed for several months by ten teachers. The table represents their combined observations upon these boys, whose average age was about fourteen.

Of the boys who smoked, fourteen were nervous, twelve had poor memory, sixteen had bad manners, eighteen were low in deportment, twelve were in poor physical condition, fourteen were bad morally, eighteen were in bad mental condition and stood low in their studies, sixteen were street loafers, and ten were truants, while only one was known to attend church or Sunday school, 95 per cent. were older than average in grade, 85 per cent. were poor workers.

On the other hand, the nonsmokers show only two with bad manners, only two with a poor physical development, only four careless in dress, only three poor in their studies, while nine of the twenty were known to attend church and Sunday school.

In view of these facts, should not our Sunday schools work to secure the passage of such a law in every State as has recently been introduced into the legislature of New York, forbidding a boy under eighteen even to have cigarettes in his possession?—Jas. E. Russell.

TWENTY SCHOOL CHILDREN CREMATED.

Peabody, Mass., Oct. 28.—Twenty pupils of St. John's parochial school lost their lives in a fire that, starting in the basement a few minutes after the morning session had opened today, swept through the three stories of the brick and wooden school building in less than five minutes.

Nineteen of the boys and girls, none of whom was out of their teens, were burned or crushed to death while attempting to escape. A score of others were injured, some dangerously. Of the latter, one—Milfred Mead, aged sixteen, died after having been removed to a hospital.

The bodies of the dead were fright-

Why's "Gets-It," for Corns, Like a Kiss?

Because Everybody Tries It, Everybody Likes It, It's Painless and Takes But a Moment to Apply.

"Gets-It" is the wonder of the corn-patched world. Millions say so, because millions have used it. That's what makes it the biggest selling corn remedy on earth today. "Gets-It" will surely get that corn or callus out of your foot in a long time as he suggested. Take it right off, clean as a whistle. Apply it in 2 seconds, put your stocking and foot right over it. Nothing to speak of, nothing to do. You needn't fuss with thick bandages that make a nuisance out of your foot. No knives, no pins and saws, no tape, no trowels. It's simply, really, gently, quickly, painless. Try it also for blisters and warts.

"Never in My Life Saw Anything Get So Quickly and Magically as 'Gets-It'."

"Gets-It" is sold at all drug stores, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co. Chicago.

fully burned and of the nineteen at the meeting, only two, Elizabeth Nolan, aged seventeen years, and Mary Sullivan, sixteen, both members of the senior class, had been killed. The other nineteen had been killed by the explosion of the mine, and it was believed that twenty-five had been killed or fatally injured.

There were twenty killed in the building when the fire started. The other nineteen had been killed by the explosion of the mine, and it was believed that twenty-five had been killed or fatally injured.

Dapper and elegant. Hamilton Lewis, United States Senator from Illinois, attracted considerable attention as he suggested a method of curing corns. He said that he had used "Gets-It" for many years and had found it to be a most effective remedy.

Senator Lewis, when asked yesterday whether he was a candidate for nomination for Vice President, said:

"Concerning that rumor I wish to say that I am not a candidate for the office of Vice President. As Vice President Marshall has earned the right to re-nomination by splendid service, but should he not do so, I would be glad to see the office come to Illinois, and Illinois would then decide the question, whether or she would present me or another of her sons."

Regarding the situation, politically, in Kentucky, Senator Lewis said the present campaign in Kentucky and Tennessee will convince the Republicans that the only way they can get votes in the South is to give the South something in return as to the nomination of presidential electors. He said that he would be glad to see the office come to Illinois, and Illinois would then decide the question, whether or she would present me or another of her sons.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years' Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mt. Airy, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town, says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell."

I tried most every kind of medicine, but none did me any good.

I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together.

My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it.

Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble, such as headache, backache, sideache, sleeplessness, and that everlastingly tired feeling?

If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century.

Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. All druggists.

NOTICE OF COMMISSIONER'S SALE

THE WITNESS

By OSCAR COX

After the war between the states there was ruin among the planters of the south. Randolph Etheredge, a young man whose father, Colonel Etheredge, had been killed at Shiloh and who himself had been wounded at Vicksburg, returned after the surrender to his plantation and endeavored to restore it to something like order. The fences had been burned for campfires; the outhouses had been torn down for lumber with which to build temporary quarters for the sick and wounded, and the negroes were scattered.

A few, it is true, remained, but they were so old as to be useless. Freedom to them meant a reliance on themselves at the close of their lives to which they had never been accustomed. They clung to the old plantation because it was home. The young owner made them as comfortable as he could, but to provide food and clothing for them was no easy matter.

James Lynch, a former overseer, had saved money and when Colonel Etheredge needed a loan had taken a mortgage on the plantation for funds advanced. Now that the new south was opening he was desirous of taking the property to himself and running it on the free labor principle. There being a long accumulation of unpaid interest, he went to the owner and demanded it. Etheredge asked for time. Lynch refused. Etheredge, knowing that his creditor was indebted to the colonel, his father, for all that he was, reproached him angrily. There was a quarrel, and Etheredge knocked the overseer down. Lynch sued Etheredge for assault.

"The only witness of the scuffle was Moses, a white hulled old darky whom Lynch summoned for the prosecution. When Moses took the stand he held a trembling hand on the rail before him and looked at the assembly idly.

"Uncle Moses," said the prosecutor, "where were you on the 20th of June last, the day that Mr. Lynch visited Mr. Etheredge and a quarrel occurred between them?"

"Don't know nose day," he said.

"There he is," pointing to Lynch.

"That is Mr. Lynch," said the prosecutor. "We need to ask him if he saw Mr. Lynch."

"Never did I see no one," he said. "Tell me what you want, the day he visited the Etheredge plantation?"

"I saw de overseer come on to de veranda, and Mr. Etheredge go to come out to meet him. I saw de overseer say to Mr. Etheredge, 'I want de money what I loan de colonel.' Mr. Etheredge he say, 'First thing I got to do is get some suit pack and come home fo' de helpless niggers who's too ole fo' work.' Ma fadder tuk de when yo' war starvin' and paid yo' wages."

"I didn't ask you what was said. I asked you what was done," interrupted the lawyer, endeavoring by his severe tone to overcome the witness.

"How I gwine know what war did befo' I tole yo' what war said?"

"Did you see Mr. Etheredge strike Mr. Lynch?"

"No, sah. I didn't see no fight between de overseer and Mr. Etheredge."

"Yes, you did. You were there when it occurred."

"I seen sompin' goin' on between Mars Etheredge and dat boy down po' white trash overseer."

"What did you see?"

"I see Mars Etheredge point de finger ob some at de overseer and say de counsel sah him from starvin'."

"Stop there. If you don't tell me what you saw and not what you heard I'll ask his honor to commit you for contempt of court."

"His honor's not gwine to commit me fo' contempt of nuthin' but dat mis'alde specimen ob po' white trash, Jim Lynch."

By this time the faces of the jury and the spectators wore a broad grin, the witness looked pleased and the prosecutor very much embarrassed. He would have dismissed the witness, but he was the only person who saw his client knocked down, and he must either make him so testily or lose the case. He returned to the work, but persuasively or, rather, strategically:

"Uncle Remus, did you ever see a man knocked down?"

"What dat?"

"Like this." The lawyer drew back his arm and struck the air.

"No, sah. I nebber see a man do nuthin' like dat."

"Tell me remember you are under oath—did you not see Mr. Etheredge do that to James Lynch?"

"No, sah! Mars Etheredge got sumpin' better to do dan swingin' de 'n'm ag'in de wind."

This was too much for the spectators, who burst into a roar. Etheredge spoke a few words to his counsel, who arose and said:

"Your honor, my client has requested me to refuse to proceed further in this case. If convicted he will pay whatever fine your honor chooses to impose."

"Case dismissed," said the judge, "there being no evidence of the charge."

The court adjourned, and all went out convinced that the defendant had given the plaintiff his just deserts. Old Moses found himself a hero. He had been freed by the emancipation proclamation, but clung to the old plantation.

How an Author Achieved Success

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

Elliott Kenton was writing a Shillan story in his room in a tenement building in which various nationalities had their abodes. His first dwelling place since he had begun writing was a handsome bachelor apartment house. He had not found literature profitable and had moved from time to time, each move carrying him downward.

His literary aspirations had come down with his ill success. He had begun by "driving over the heads of the people" and had ended by being too enough to cut off some people's toes. This was what he was writing at the present time:

This detective who has a nose among us, who looks for evidence to convict our most valuable members, must be obliterated. I shall rely on you and the others to keep me advised of his movements and inform me of the opportune moment to strike him. And me word of what hour he usually goes out, whether to be alone or attended. Does he ever cross the park? If I can catch him there, where the danger of witnesses would be at the minimum, I would fight him at a single blow.

Kenton wrote this twice, and, selecting the copy that he liked best, he threw the other on the floor. Then he went on with his story, which ended with a certain person known only as "the detective" being murdered in cold blood while crossing the park.

It was late in the afternoon when Kenton finished the last chapter and, wrapping up his manuscript and addressing it to a publisher, went out with it, dropped it in a receptacle for bulky mail and proceeded to a restaurant for dinner. In the evening, having a deadhead ticket to a movie theater, he attended a play and about 11 o'clock started for his room. As he approached he saw a number of men standing before the entrance, among whom were several policemen. On drawing nearer he noticed that the front of the building in which he lived was scattered on the pavement and the street.

"What's the matter there," he asked a man coming toward him from the wrecked building?

"Bomb," said the man as he hurried on.

Kenton paused. He knew that the building had been filled with a miscellaneous people, including German, French, Norwegian, Italian and other nationalities. He did not recollect the fact that he was a teacher there might be mixed up with this bomb throwing. He turned to see if he was seen by a policeman and, lo and behold, the fact of his turning his eyes toward the building, the policeman took him to the building, where the door was still open, and the others in the crowd.

"That's the man," said the policeman. "What man?" asked the policeman.

"The man that comes where you found the bomb."

A pair of handcuffs were clapped on Kenton's wrists, and he was taken to a police station. The landlord went along as a witness. There was a preliminary examination at which the landlord swore that Kenton occupied a room in which an exploding pipe was found. Then the prisoner was put into a cell.

The next morning, when Kenton was wondering what it all meant, a lawyer was ushered to his cell who said that he had been retained by certain parties to defend him, but that the defense would not amount to anything. The prisoner's friends relied rather upon terrorizing any witnesses that might testify against him. But why? asked the attorney. Were you so careless as to leave that letter where it would be readily found?

"What letter?" asked Kenton.

"That letter to the gang announcing that you were ready to kill the detective."

"I never wrote such a letter."

The lawyer shrugged his shoulders. "For heaven's sake, man," cried Kenton, suddenly remembering his story, "you don't mean that they have found a scrap of my Shillan story?"

"They found a letter offering if those to whom it was written would put the writer out to how to get a certain detective you would 'do' him."

"Why, that is fiction."

"Fiction be hanged! You can't play that game with the police prosecutor, but you needn't be afraid. That letter doesn't prove that you threw the bomb. It's only circumstantial. You keep quiet. Your friends have got it all fixed, and you can't be convicted."

"You needn't consider yourself my counsel. I'll take care of my own case."

"Very well; if you want to be sent up for a term of years or to the 'chair' go ahead. All I have to say is the only thing that can save you is terrorizing any witnesses who may be brought against you."

With that the man of law departed, and Kenton sent for a friend who was also an attorney. When the latter arrived Kenton told him that he had got into a fix from writing a novel and thunder story and must be helped out.

The lawyer called on the publisher to whom his client's manuscript had been submitted with a copy of the scrap of paper that had been picked up and found its place in the novel. He succeeded in procuring Kenton's release without his being brought to trial.

The incident attracted the publisher's attention to the story and procured a reading for it. The reports concurred that the story was thrilling and especially adapted to the class of readers the firm desired to reach. It was published, was a great success and established the reputation of the author.

A Painful Experience

By SADIE OLCOTT

A number of maiden ladies sitting over their teacups began to talk of those incidents trifling in themselves, but which have caused the separation of lovers. This led to a narration of experiences. Miss Hartmore said that she had broken with a lover because she had invited him to dinner and, instead of appearing in evening dress, he had worn a lousiness suit. Miss Winters confessed that she had shown temper while playing tennis with a man who would doubtless have proposed to her. He had sent a bill that struck her on the nose, drawing blood that had stained a newly laundered skirt. There were other omissions, mishaps and displays of natural imperfections which lovers do not expect to find in each other and which had the parties been wedded would not have been considered of the slightest consequence.

One lady of the party, still young enough to repair any such damage, sat intently listening to these recitals, wearing the while a woe-begone countenance. Being asked if she had not had such an experience, she admitted that she had, but she had suffered so severely in consequence that she could not bear to talk about it. Every one present urged her to tell the story, promising sympathy, and all were sure that she could not herself in anyway have been at fault. Being finally persuaded, she spoke as follows:

"In my childhood I always favored boys older than myself, and since I have been grown I have admired not youths who talk of trivial subjects, but men of caliber. Professor Pindexter caught my fancy by his dignified appearance and the depth of his understanding. I first saw him at a lecture he delivered on 'Antiquity of Literature.' It seemed to me that every word he uttered was a gem. The party I was with remained after the lecture, and I was introduced. I shall never forget the courtesy bow with which he greeted me, and my heart fluttered at the look of admiration he cast on me.

"The very next day I was informed by one of the ladies of the party with whom I had attended the lecture that Professor Pindexter desired to know me, and she asked permission to bring him to call upon me. Of course I assented, and I admit I counted the days, almost to hours, till he came. He was very formal, but this only added to the admiration I felt for him. During the rest of our acquaintance he never upset me, but always treated me with the most profound reverence, which at times nearly rendered me speechless.

"Aware that it would be fatal for me to make a display of my shallowness, I contented myself with leading him to speak on ponderous subjects, then listened, with my eyes fixed upon him in rapt admiration, though I confess I seldom understood what he was saying. Occasionally when a glimmer of his meaning penetrated my dull brain I would venture some question pertaining to the subject, whereupon he would kindly say that what I failed to grasp had puzzled many of the strongest intellects, and he would thus enter upon an explanation that would drown me in a sea of unintelligible-ness.

"My admirer was twenty years older than I, but that only added reverence to the love I felt for him.

"I cannot refer to the evening he proposed to me without emotion." Here the speaker wiped away a tear. "We were in the drawing room, lighted by lamps with shades of various hues. I was sitting on a sofa, and in an easy chair directly before me. He took my hand in his and said—

"The narrative was interrupted by a flood of tears.

"Never mind the proposed, dear," said several ladies at once. "It's too affecting. Pardon us to what caused the separation."

The speaker composed herself, wiped away her tears and proceeded:

"We had been engaged a month. I had introduced Professor Pindexter to my friends, proud of him and his learning. One day we went shopping together. Among other things my fiance bought was an alarm clock. He said he wished to put in a few hours of study before breakfast and needed to be awakened. The clerk showed us how to set it and gave us a specimen of the alarm, which was loud enough to wake the dead. My fiance concluded to take it home himself since he needed it the next morning, so he put it in his coat pocket. We went home in a trolley car. Among the passengers I recognized several of my acquaintances. So proud of my capture was I and so desirous of showing off his learning that I led him to talk on an abstract subject. Those who were near enough to hear what he said were listening intently when—

"The speaker's sobs burst forth again, shaking her utterance."

"Poor thing! Calm yourself," came from the listeners, while one curious lady cried impatiently, "Stop your sniveling and go on!" Finally the demonstration came:

"The alarm clock in his pocket went off."

Nothing was heard for a time but the speaker's sobs till a lady asked: "Did it ring very long?"

"Forever!" gasped the narrator.

"Then what?"

"When we left the car, both red as beets, I cried, 'You old fool, why didn't you have it sent home?'"

A SIMPLE SLEEPING PORCH

WHEN you build your new home plan to have a sleeping porch. If you do not like hot summer nights and stuffy winter nights indoors, build a sleeping porch like the one above on your present home. Place it in an angle so as to avoid drafts. The southeast or southwest side of the house is best. The sides should be boarded up three or four feet to insure privacy and a reasonable freedom from drafts. The upper part should be covered with wire netting. Outside the netting hang canvas strips that can be raised or lowered from the inside.

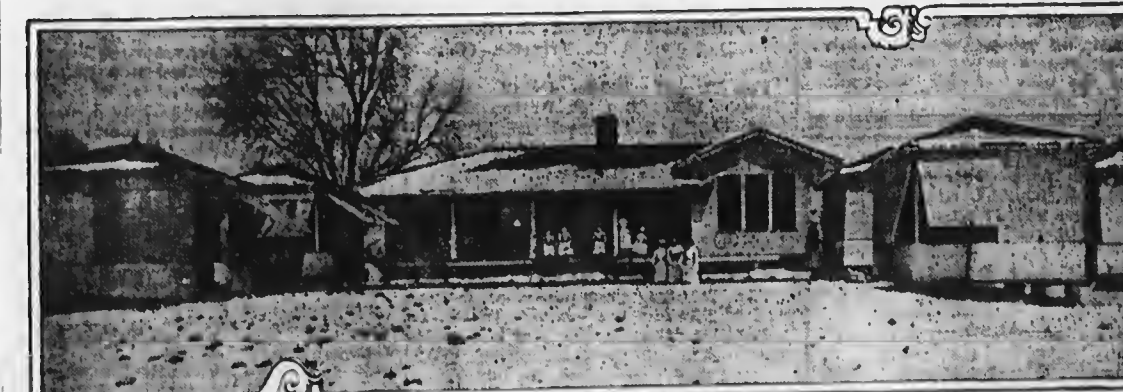

A porch of this sort can be made for from $50 to $100, depending on the kind of finish and material used.

MAKING PROGRESS

THESE happy, healthy looking children were sent to this open air school in Louisville a little time ago because they were run down and anemic. Warmly clothed and provided with special diet, they do their school tasks in a room with the windows wide open, so that the wind can blow over them. Without exception these children make rapid progress in school and improve in health almost beyond belief.

Shacks For Consumptives at Western Kentucky Asylum For the Insane

AT the state asylum for the insane at Hopkinsville it was found some years ago that many of the patients were afflicted with consumption. The authorities consequently built two groups of buildings to accommodate the consumptive cases.

A central building, to provide a dining room, bathrooms, etc., was surrounded by groups of shacks, each having beds for three patients. The lower fourth of each side of the shacks was boarded up, and the section above was formed of canvas stretched over frames. These canvas screens were made in sections fastened at the top with hinges, so that any side might be opened to admit the fresh air and sunlight.

Dr. J. P. Sights, superintendent of the hospital, states that the death rate at the asylum has been decreased 40 per cent by the use of these buildings for the consumptives, and that many of the consumptives have been returned to the main building restored and some have been sent home restored both physically and mentally.

The two groups of buildings, accommodating fifty-six patients, were built for less than $8,000. Dr. Sights says further "I think every county in the state should have a tuberculosis colony, and the county officials, who will take the time to look into the benefit offered their citizens, would not hesitate to take steps at once to establish such a colony, and do the greatest service possible for them to do with the amount invested. It will not be an experiment, as this state institution, with its limited funds, demonstrated fully the wisdom and economy of the project."

RAISING PIGS TWO WAYS.

REMARKABLE RESULTS SHOWN BY DIFFERENT METHODS.

The most instructive exhibit was a pen of four pigs (all of the same age), two of them raised by a Louisiana farmer in the old way of letting the hogs take care of themselves, and root out their living in the woods and fields. The two belonging to the pig club boy—one a half-bred and the other a pure-bred Berkshire—were fed according to government instruction. These weighed 205 and 305 pounds respectively, while the farmer's pair weighed about 50 pounds each. From a market standpoint the two small hogs were not worth more than $3.50 each. The boy's half-bred was worth $15, from the market standpoint, and the pure-bred, from a breeder's standpoint, would bring $50. This exhibit taught the farmers of Louisiana and the rest of the world a lesson that by another decade will be adopted in every state in the Union.

Louisiana selects forty of her most promising boys every year, as free scholarship students for a winter course in the state agricultural college. This year thirteen of the forty were from the ranks of the pig clubs. There are very many of these instances of success, but the best of all is the winning of the Grand Championship of her state by thirteen-year old Alice McCoy, of Blanchard, Caddo Parish, over all the other one hundred and eighty-four boy and girl competitors. Her zeal to enter a pig club was encouraged by a loan of ten dollars from the superintendent of schools to buy a "finished Berkshire gilt." Eleven months old, it weighed five hundred pounds. A breeder offered Miss McCoy $50 for it. The significant part of her achievement is the conversion of her father from being a poor cotton farmer to a pig raiser. Alice made more money from her one pig than he did from his whole farm, from which he gained one bale of cotton, worth about $45. It cost her only $8 to raise her pig, a little more than two cents a pound. Her ten dollars brought more than his investment in two mules, farming implements, and a year's work. The daughter made the father a wiser farmer. Other girls were successful. Mary Douglas, a little girl from Gilliam, Louisiana, is saving money to go to college, through her pig club operations. And Lillian Turner, of Minden, specializing in Poland-China gilts, won first cash among the boys' exhibits and first honors in the open classes against the pigs of the breeders!—American Magazine.

WILL GIVE PLAYS.

The advanced students of Pikeville College will give a mystery play on Thanksgiving eve at the college chapel. The interesting feature of this play is, that the title will be a secret which the public is not to be admitted until the curtain rises.

The fairy opera entitled, "The Rose Drenm," presented by the younger students of the college, was a highly interesting entertainment and was largely attended.

The entertainment attraction of the season will be a play entitled, "The Rhodes Scholar," which will be presented to the public during the second week in December at one of the theaters of the city by the Young Men's Class and the girl's class of the M. E. Church, South, Sunday school. This sketch exhibits a fine instance of the power of love in inducing a young man to become a scholar. Miss Olga Hinchey has been assigned to one of the leading parts, and Mr. Earl Brooks to the title role. A vigorous effort will be made to make of this the strongest amateur production ever staged at Pikeville.

A REVIVING CORPSE.

At the next session of the Kentucky Legislature it is believed another attempt to split Pike-co. will be made. Mr. Fred C. Trivette, Representative-elect for this county will be present to do the will of the whole people as nearly as he can; and if the people should be divided as to their wishes on this subject, he will choose his stand with a view to serving the best interests of his constituency.

HOLDING SPECIAL TERM.

The Pike Circuit Court is now in special session on a four weeks term. This makes eleven weeks of court for this fall. It is the intention of the court to furnish an opportunity for the settlement of pressing business that has long been awaiting trial.

MEETING CLOSED.

With a record more than one hundred conversions the great series of revival meetings at the Island creek tabernacle drew to a close last Sunday night, and Miss Faith Claire, the special singer, returned to her home at Coulton, Ky., Monday morning. This is said to have been the greatest revival ever held in Pikeville or Pike-co. The aftermath of this great religious undertaking will continue to be felt for years to come. Nor are the meetings permanently abandoned. Mid-week prayer meetings will be held regularly at the tabernacle, at which the revival spirit will have full sway again, and also prayer meetings at the homes will be held, so that the work will become perpetual though the revival proper has been discontinued.

Rev. M. C. Reynolds, one of the promoters of the meetings, expects to spend much time with the people at Island creek for the future to strengthen the results of the remarkable meetings.

REDEEM CHURCH.

An effort will be made by Rev. M. C. Reynolds, pastor, to save the beautiful First Methodist church building from being sold to satisfy part of the construction debt, and will seek to raise a sufficient amount by popular subscription to settle in full all claims upon it.

The structure was erected during the year 1913 at an approximate cost of $14,000, and part of the funds were raised before the work of building was commenced. This amount was applied to purchasing the site, and at present a balance debt of about $10,000 still exists on the property. A sufficient amount was promised on subscription to settle the balance owing, but many of those who promised contributions failed to meet their obligation, thus raising the debt that created the present embarrassment. Acting on the plan of a Louisa minister, the pastor proposes to ask the aid not only of business men of Pikeville, but also of other congregations through the medium of the Christian Advocate, a publication of Cincinnati. Part of the needed fund can be raised here, as many substantial business men have promised, and the parties holding the judgment and order of sale have agreed to donate a part of their debt, and $6,000 will yet be needed to completely liquidate the debt. Contributions from all sources, no matter how large or small, will be welcome, and Mr. Reynolds will personally feel thankful for every cent toward the fund received.

ORGANIZING BAND.

A second band is being organized among the young men of Pikeville by Mr. Frank F. Vaughn, who will occupy the position of director. The organization is being aided by Rev. T. S. Thistle, pastor of the Christian church, and others, and public subscription is being resorted to raise part of the fund with which the instruments will be purchased.

Pikeville needs such an organization as Mr. Vaughn proposes to make of this, since good music is an essential of every well regulated community.

HERMAN RIDDER DEAD.

With the death of Herman Ridder, editor of the New York Staats Zeitung, one of the most powerful German influences in America passed away. A personal friend of the Kaiser, head of the German propaganda work in this country, ardent supporter of the Tonic cause in the present world conflict, and possessor of many state secrets of the Berlin government, he was the most conspicuous figure of the German race in the United States. Ridder was at one time President of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association and was later made a director of the Associated Press. He contributed largely to Bryan's campaign in 1908, and was prominently mentioned for Vice President at the nominating convention. The Berlin government looked to Ridder and Dernberg to successfully plant German kultur in this country and to strengthen German influence. With Ridder in his grave and Dernberg deported, American culture and influences may once again resume their work of teaching civilization, peace and good will at home and abroad.

MASON COMPANY SELLS BIG TRACT IN OLD VIRGINIA.

Coal Deal of Considerable Magnitude Closed in Huntington

Yesterday.

A coal deal of considerable magnitude was closed in Huntington yesterday, when the Mason Coal and Coke company, of this city, sold a large tract of mineral land to the Cumberland Mountain Coal Company, of Charleston.

While the exact consideration was not made known, it was understood to have been in the neighborhood of $100,000.

The tract sold by the Mason company is the last of its Virginia holdings, consisting of 13,000 acres in Buchanan-co., Va. The tract is on Knox creek and is tributary to the Norfolk & Western railroad, being directly on the Big Sandy Cumberland narrow gauge railroad.

The Cumberland Mountain company, purchaser of the tract, was represented in the deal here yesterday by Capt. S. H. Ayia, former congressman, of Knoxville-co., H. R. Shullice, and Mr. Strunkfellow are prominent members of the purchasing company.

Two years ago the Mason company, in which the controlling interests are Z. T. Vinson and Donald Clark, of Huntington, sold 100,000 acres in the same Virginia district to the E. J. Herwind interests. The Mason company still retains considerable coal land in Pike-co., Ky.

The Virginia tract which figured in the deal yesterday is as yet undeveloped, and it was made known whether or not the Cumberland Mountain company expects to develop it at once.

The Mason company was organized in 1907.

Reports of the deal were confirmed yesterday by Mr. Clark, of Huntington. —Herald Dispatch.

ADMITS TWO MARRIAGES.

Gypsy Says She Deserted Husband For Former Sweetheart.

Huntington, W. Va., November 1.—When one of her two husbands came here from Texas to-day, Gypsy Boyd Swift, 23 years old, a daughter of W. S. Boyd, of Paintsville, Ky., a timberman, was arrested on a charge of bigamy.

An hour after the girl had been placed in a cell she was freed by a Magistrate, who issued a warrant charging her first husband, C. H. Swift, formerly a Chesapeake and Ohio brakeman here, with perjury.

The girl it is said had told the Magistrate she had two husbands, the first one Swift and the second one Seldon C. Hanks, 26 years old, a Chesapeake and Ohio engineer on the Big Sandy division. She declared, however, that she married Swift in Kentucky and last April deserted him to marry Hanks in Ohio. After her desertion of Swift because of his alleged cruelties, the girl said she applied for divorce, and upon assurance of her attorneys that it would be granted, married Hanks.

Swift's perjury, according to charges of the authorities, is that he swore Mrs. Swift married another man in Cabell county, whereas in fact her second marriage took place in Ohio.

According to the girl's story Hanks was her former sweetheart, and she married Swift, she said, "in a mail fit." —Cincinnati Enquirer.
